

Words we Recognise: Cognates

Today, let's look at cognates and how we recognise words in other languages.

The World of Languages and Languages of the World

- Figure 1. The effect of the number of trials on the number of correct responses. The number of correct responses was plotted against the number of trials for each condition. The error bars represent the standard error of the mean.

Let's go!

- Think back to last week. What do these words have in common?

sauna

yurt

robot

fiesta

dungarees

croissant

That's right! They all

Today, we're investigating cognates!

A cognate is a word that looks and sounds the same, or similar, in a different language.

The words have the same linguistic roots: they come from the same language family.

- a. What cognates can you think of?
- b. The French for "house" is maison. Can you think of the English cognate for this word?
- c. What is the difference between a cognate and a loanword?

- English – House
- German – Haus
- Dutch – Huis
- Danish – Hus

Cognates in English

- The English Language as we speak it today is influenced by Celtic, Anglo-Saxon, Latin, Viking, Norman French, ancient Greek and the languages of the British Empire.
- This means we can understand words from all over the world even before we start to learn the language.
- Are you ready for a challenge?

This Photo by Unknown author is licensed under CC BY.

ιπποπόταμος
Wollow the Hippo

Can you find the pairs in under 30 seconds?

potato
sopa

coliflor

limón

pear

patata

melón

vanilla

tomato ensalade

vainilla soup

brócoli

cauliflower

lemon

tomate

melon

pera

salad

broccoli

What words can you mix/mingle?
Guess what these WWF headlines are about!

- 1. "Um mein Horn zu Asche zu machen, wird meine ganze Art verpulvert"
- 2. Víctima de la superstición: a su cuerno se le suponen "poderes curativos".
- 3. Rhinocéros: Des cornes à prix d'or.
- 4. Rinoceronte: La sua vita non vale un corno!

ΙΠΠΟΠΟΤΑΜΟΣ
WoLLow the HIPPO

This Photo by Unknown author is licensed under CC BY-NC-ND 4.0

Match the headline to the English translation.

- a. Her life is not worth a horn.
- b. Horns worth the price of gold.
- c. Victim of superstition:
her horn is believed to have healing powers.
- d. To turn my horn into ashes, my whole species will be pulverized.

- 1. "Um mein Horn zu Asche zu machen, wird meine ganze Art verpulvert"
- 2. Víctima de la superstición:
a su cuerno se
le suponen "poderes curativos".
- 3. Rhinocéros: Des cornes à prix d'or.
- 4. Rinoceronte: La sua vita non vale un corno!

FRENCH

GERMAN SPANISH

ITALIAN

1. "Um mein Horn zu Asche zu machen, wird meine ganze Art verpulvert"
2. Víctima de la superstición: a su cuerno se le suponen "poderes curativos".
3. Rhinocéros: Des cornes à prix d'or.
4. Rinoceronte: La sua vita non vale un corno!

Match the headline to the correct language.

How is "horn" translated in the four languages?

In which language is the word for "horn" the same as English?

Which three languages have a similar word for "horn"? Why could this be?

Create your own headline

- Create a snappy headline along with a picture based on the World Wildlife Foundation (WWF) headlines we have seen.
- Write one in English and one in a language of your choice or a mixture of languages.

my horn is NOT for sale

ιπποπόταμος
WoLLow the HIPPO

A final thought....

- Not all cognates are as they seem...watch out for "False Friends".

- Pain (English)
- Sale (English)
- Gift (English)
- Glass (English)
- Rock (English)

French)

Sale (Fre

t (German)

Glass (S

edish)

Rok (Dutch)

WoLLoW would like to know if you remember what these hidden words mean?

